

Broadway Musicals of the 1970's

Full-scale productions of Broadway musicals that involved the whole school were a highlight of the mid 1970's. Staff & students volunteered for set design & construction, ticket sales, costumes, make-up, programs, etc. Students were eager to participate in the large casts of the shows.

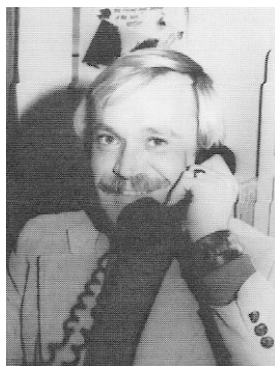

Tina Torlone was featured in the "King & I" in 1975. "My Fair Lady" followed. Next, Robert Persichini starred in "Fiddler on the Roof" in 1976-1977, playing to an audience of over 3,000 people. "One More Time", a musical revue, followed in 1977, with Tina Torlone returning for a starring role.

The shows played to packed audiences who much appreciated the efforts of the school.

Note:
After high school graduation, both Tina and Robert went on to make very successful professional careers in the arts.
